

experiment 3: In soil colloids, particles carry negative charges that repel each other, keeping them dispersed. This strong charge neutralization allows soil particles to clump together (flocculate) into larger aggregates.