

Standards became important not just to ensure that pieces fit together, but also to ensure the safety of
.the final product