In Sherwood Anderson's short story "Sophistication," Helen White's mother serves as a crucial foil to Helen's internal growth and her search for meaning. o Representative of Social Ambition: Helen's mother embodies the "sophistication" of the town's upper-middle class.o Catalyst for Helen's Rebellion: Her mother's conventionality is what drives Helen toward George Willard.

lakhasly.com © تم تلخيص النص بواسطة موقع لخصلي