

Building connections is important for happiness because they create fun memories, provide support, and
.bring joy through shared experiences