

ABSTRACT This project involves designing an efficient inverter system to convert DC to AC power using advanced electronics and smart control techniques. Successful implementation requires a specialized team with expertise in electrical engineering and control