

Two different tests are used to screen for hearing loss in babies.o Otoacoustic emissions (OAE) tests whether some parts of the ear respond to sound.During this test, a soft earphone is inserted into your .baby's ear canal.Your baby can rest or sleep during both tests