

Clinical Findings A. Normal Hosts Primary CMV infection of older children and adults is usually asymptomatic but occasionally causes a spontaneous infectious mononucleosis syndrome. CMV is estimated to cause 20–50% of heterophil-negative (non-EBV) mononucleosis cases. CMV mononucleosis is a mild disease, and complications are rare