

Therefore, we find that the law gives them great importance and always works to develop these methods in a manner that is consistent with the developments in the needs of society and the citizen