

In conclusion, being a good Omani citizen requires commitment to positive values and morals and contributing to the development of society in a positive way. So, let us work together to be exemplary Omani citizens and contribute to building our dear homeland in the best possible ways. By preserving the environment, cooperating with others, and contributing to philanthropy, we can all build a more progressive, connected society.