

We all know the loudspeaker experiences. However, for the other caller, it's like trying to hear a single voice through a crowd of taxis in Manhattan – impossible and frustrating. You may need to use speakerphone on rare occasions, such as when you're on a conference call or when you're trying to troubleshoot a phone.