

It is usually the treatment of choice, when toxic agents such as barbiturates, after an overdose needed to be removed from the body quickly, in this process the clients toxin-laden blood is diverted into dialyzer, .cleaned and returned to the client