

Software for project management, web browsing, and text messaging can be customized to meet the demands of users