Study Population The study included 470,478 participants with in– dividual–level data, including 367,641 participants who were enrolled in the U.K. Biobank study and 102,837 participants who were enrolled in one of the 14 prospective cohort or case–control studies as part of the Database of Genotypes and .Pheno– types program of the National Center for Bio– technology Information