

The White House is the official residence of the President of United States and is considered a symbol of presidential authority and government in the United States