

Employees in the grocery and supermarket industry work in a wide variety of roles. Depending on their skills, expertise, and functions, they are known as customer service assistants, managers, supervisors, sales representatives, data analysts, and many more.