

The management of solid waste presents a challenge for developing countries as the generation of .waste is increasing at a rapid and alarming rate