

- o By doing so, it implies that every new product the company brings on to the market is a new brand and can be positioned precisely for a specific market segment