

The play suggests the dead influence the living, evidenced by Bartley's death possibly due to Michael's spirit seeking company or resenting Bartley wearing his shirt. Maurya's inability to bless while using Michael's stick further illustrates this. Synge's work blends folklore and Christian beliefs throughout