

The play challenged the traditional system of society, particularly the role of men and women relationship. Women was considered as a small thing unable to make decisions