

AR/VR allows for virtual meetings and remote design reviews, eliminating the need for all participants to be physically present in the same location. The interactive nature of AR/VR enhances design reviews by enabling stakeholders to actively engage with the virtual environment. They can explore the design from various perspectives, walk through spaces, and interact with virtual objects. It also enhances client engagement during the design process.