

there is a logical problem of language learning. According to this analysis, the input to the learner is too inconsistent and incomplete to determine the acquisition of grammar. Moreover, when corrective feedback is provided, children tend to ignore it. Also the constraints and principles cannot be learned