

which is in charge of the product's sales in Canada and North America. Coca-Cola has adopted the?

following best practices in logistics: ?Producing goods more frequently, such as once per week Implementing weekly meetings between the teams around the world moving the manufacturing facilities closer to the customers establishing daily communication between the primary sites introducing shared, smooth processes throughout all supply chain actors