The disposal of plastics is a highly visible global problem – from the highest mountains to the deepest ocean trenches, waste plastic seems inescapable plastics are meary indestructible, and yet they are discarded worldwide on large scale: the world produces around 359 milion tonnes of plastics each year. This has led to a consensus that plastics re an unsustainable material. The environment cannot address their disposal at a speed fast enough lo prevent harm to living bengs. In natural conditions