

The nervous system sends signals from the brain to the muscles to initiate movement. This involves the – motor cortex, which controls voluntary movements