

Face-to-face learning and online learning are two methods for learning. Both methods have their advantages: face-to-face learning builds social skills, while online learning offers convenience and accessibility.