Closed−Form Expression evaluation is one of the easiest tasks in mathematics.However, with an increase in mathematical complexity, the solution of the equation becomes an increasingly tougher task.With a combination of such systems, algorithms, and the OCR system this problem can be transformed into a new domain of printed expression calculation [1].