

Firstly, experience is everything that a person acquires during his life, whether it is a practical or personal experience. It is the ability to control and perform well at the job while avoiding mistakes. Secondly plan and control the amount of time you spend on specific activities. Also, a self-confident employee can automatically stimulate himself without external stimulation