

If the school lacks the network infrastructure required to support them, delivering a roomful of children a box of laptops or notebooks won't have any positive benefits