

Wind Location: Most areas of the UAE have light winds, making it difficult to rely on wind energy as a primary source. Costs: While the costs of renewable energy technology have generally declined, the cost of constructing and maintaining wind farms remains high. However, the UAE is seeking to expand the use of renewable energy, including wind energy, as part of its vision to achieve sustainability in the future.