

Mainly because of biofilm formation Any toothbrush, regardless of the brushing method used, does not completely remove interdental plaque Because most dental and periodontal diseases originate in interproximal areas