

Several studies have been conducted in many societies relating animals metaphors which are used in semantic exclusion, especially on the differences used to describe men & women