

Online shoppers should feel free to shop online without losing their privacy and without spending their money unintentionally. Overall, I find retargeting a little scary, and I think it should be stopped. Companies will probably still use retargeting, but I am going to tell my friends and family so they understand the dangers. Fortunately, I have figured out one great trick to fight retargeting. Then nobody can follow you