

The Internet operates through a decentralized system, with millions of interconnected networks forming a .complex web of communication pathways