

Writing two: As time goes by, and as modern technology continues to evolve and develop, teachers and learners need to change as well to stay relevant. Thus, we can say that, technology also serves as a catalyst of change. Teachers have to completely accept that technology will not replace their role, but will portray a protagonizing part in their learning