

learned from this article that every diabetic patient should take care of themselves, especially during Ramadan, because they fast for hours and must take their medicine at the right time. What I learned is that I should advise anyone who suffers from this disease to become their own friend. They should take care of themselves, visit the doctor regularly to check their condition, and always follow their instructions without neglect