I chose ELGS (European Law and Global Studies) in Rome for several reasons: 1.Location: Rome is not only a city with a rich cultural and historical legacy but also a key hub for international law and European Union institutions.Facilities: The university provides modern facilities and a dynamic learning environment, offering small class sizes and close interaction with professors, which fosters a more personalized and engaging academic experience.Academic Programs: ELGS offers specialized programs in law, including International Law and EU Law, which align perfectly with my career goals.Accreditations: ELGS holds the necessary accreditations to ensure that its law degree is recognized internationally, which is essential for a successful legal career both in Europe and globally.The university's curriculum is designed to prepare students for the challenges of global legal .systems.Studying law in such a globally connected environment will give me a unique advantage.2.3.4
