Manipulating people implies working behind the scenes, guiding their behavior without their explicit consent or conscious understanding.