Before applying marketing to human resource management, managers must first understand the principles involved in both areas ofmanagement. Human resources management objectives must be tailored to help managers achieve human resource and organizational objectives. 'Human resource .management principles include st., development, employee relations, compensation, and evaluation