

there was a man working in a supermarket, the man had issues with a neighbor for a long time. One day the son of the neighbor went to the supermarket, and the man working there wants to revenge from his father so he killed the son. After that the father went to the supermarket to see what happened to his son. the supermarket man killed the father too. the police came to the supermarket and caught the man working there.x