

Architects used parametric design tools to modernize the mashrabiya concept, creating movable, hexagonal aluminum panels that align with cultural heritage while embracing cutting-edge engineering