

The data indicate that there is a dose–response relationship between tanning bed use and an elevated risk of skin cancers, especially basal cell carcinoma (BCC), with a more pronounced risk in younger users