

Political trends and developments can have significant impacts on PDO (Petroleum Development Oman) and the Omani oil industry as a whole. It is crucial for PDO to monitor political developments and adapt its strategies to navigate potential impacts and leverage opportunities in this dynamic environment. Changes in trade policies can result in increased costs and reduced profits for PDO due to the imposition of customs duties on imported goods.