

Diabetes can lead to heart disease, stroke, kidney failure, blindness, and lower limb amputations. Diabetes increases the risk of premature death, and complications associated with it can reduce quality of life.