

B F Skinner (1954): relied on the assumption that the best way to modify behaviour was to modify the environment.