

One of the important pharmacological actions of antianxiety agents of benzodiazepine class of drugs is muscle relaxing property. The skeletal muscle relaxation together with taming or calming effect these agents reduce anxiety and tension. The difference in the fall off time from the rotating rod between the control and diazepam treated animal is taken as index of muscle relaxation