

In the museum, I saw a painting of different colors. The painting was called "Moses," and it looked like I had no idea what it meant. One day, my friend walked into the museum. When I arrived at Musa, she came to me and said: "This painting reminds me of apples." apples?! I'm starting to see apples differently. How could it be an apple painting