Masks have been worn in ceremonies in Europe for more than 30,000 years.In many tribes, masks also had a significant role in special ceremonies, such as when boys became men or men became members of a secret society.For example, in China, soldiers in battles wore masks with terrifying faces to keep them safe and scare the enemy.