

My family are the most dedicated people in my life. All the members including my parents, grandparents and siblings helped me become the person I am today. I especially admire my parents, my father has always been a role model and source of strength for me. He taught me to never give up and was always supportive and encouraging.