An interpreter needs a deep understanding of both languages, the ability to translate quickly and accurately, attention to detail, and flexibility with different topics.