

This can increase per capita household income because resources can be allocated more efficiently to.3
fewer children. This can create jobs, generate income and overall economic growth within the .community.4